DIVIDED GOD - International project of intercultural dialogue with the accent to the roll of religion

Posted July 18th, 2007 by ck13

<http://www.pozitiv.si/dividedgod/>

The main topic is the role of religion that conditions different cultures of the European continent and is often in the background of individual concrete problems and conflict situations. Do religions contribute to tolerance and to solving of the afore mentioned concrete conflicts or do they to some extent actually generate these problems?

The Critique of Clericalization of Serbia

Analysis of Socio-Political and Aesthetic Discourse of New Orthodox and Church Strategies

Publication "The Critique of Clericalization of Serbia" represents a set of research essays and a chronological study, dedicated to the analysis of expansion of Serbian Orthodox Church buildings during the past ten years on the territory of Novi Sad and its vicinity, as well as analysis of specific socio-political climate that enabled this urban planning based on the principles of exclusive domination of one code, language and ideology.
